Instrument Transformer Co.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Meramec Electrical Products Co. Changes Name to Meramec Instrument Transformer Co.

Cuba, Missouri, February 6, 2015 –

Meramec Electrical Products Co., the preeminent manufacturer of Instrument Current Transformers to the electric power industry, has officially changed its name to Meramec Instrument Transformer Co.

With the new name change, Meramec also changed its brand identity logo and website address to www.MeramecUSA.com. This change in name and brand reflects the primary business and expectations the company envisions for future products and technology. This initiative allows Meramec to expand beyond its primary business of providing products for the high voltage sector for the electric generation, transmission, and distribution industry. As a result, the company plans to begin offering a whole new line of instrument transformers aimed at the medium voltage market.

“Meramec is known and recognized for meeting our customers’ demand for exceptional quality and technical service, and our dedication to providing the best American made instrument current transformers. We are now ready to move forward to meet the demand of the larger instrument transformer market. This will mean more jobs and more opportunities, as well as more growth for us, our partners, and the city of Cuba, Missouri,” says Nick Sanazaro, President of Meramec Instrument Transformer Co.

Meramec Instrument Transformer Co. was established in 1969 and is located in Cuba, Missouri. For over 45 years, Meramec has focused on product quality, technical support, customer service and industry leading turnaround times. Meramec products are designed, manufactured, produced and managed completely in the U.S.A. Meramec believes in the importance of continuous improvement and being prepared for the future. Because of that, the company is ISO 9001:2008 registered, is a proud partner in the Green Supplier Network, and manufactures its products using renewable resources. Meramec’s goal is to always exhibit the very highest of regard and professionalism to its customers, the public, and the environment.
